

I can think of few things worse than being trapped for hours on an airline next to some jerk who is talking on his/her cell phone the entire time. Airlines are taking away more and more things from the passengers, please don't add salt to the wound by allowing cell phones.